SPRING 2011 COLLECTION

The Spring 2011 Collection, created by Founder and Creative Director François Nars, awakens the spirit to spring. The palette of jeweled earth tones is accented with shots of unexpectedly bright color. For the campaign, Nars specifically chose to photograph model Iris Strubegger. An admirer of her androgynous look, he felt she was the embodiment of the effortless chic and cool sophistication that he envisioned for the collection.

To achieve the makeup look in the campaign image, Iris's complexion was evened with Barcelona Sheer Glow Foundation and Custard Concealer. Both were set with a light dusting of Eden Loose Powder before Laguna Bronzer was blended across the forehead, cheekbones and jaw line to lend skin a little extra warmth. Next, Palm Beach Multiple was applied to the cheekbones and temples, blending outwards toward the hairline, as contour. Laguna Bronzing Powder was used along forehead, cheekbones, and jaw line to create more shade and contour.

The eye was prepped with Smudge Proof Eyeshadow Base, and then the deep bronze shade of Calanque Trio Eyeshadow was applied from lash to brow. Next, the matte caramel shade was blended into the lid. The lash line and waterline were defined with Black Moon Eyeliner Pencil. Brows were defined with Coconut Grove Single Eyeshadow. The eyes were finished with two coats of Larger Than Life Volumizing Mascara on both the top and bottom lashes.

An almost-nude lip—created by Tzigane Lipstick topped with Madère Pure Matte Lipstick – complemented the look.

The Spring 2011 Collection is the epitome of minimalism, reaching a sensual peak with fresh, forward color. Jeweled earth tones for eyes and nails are infused with a metallic finish that lends a subtly sleek finish. Cool compliments of sheer and sparkling lips pair with unexpected accents of parrot green and vivid blue. It all adds up to a look that's indisputably modern.

Q&A WITH FRANÇOIS NARS

Describe the color palette you envisioned for the Spring 2011 collection.

"I envisioned something rich and modern with bright colors. Very much like nature, which is what catches my eye when spring is approaching. It's a combination of vibrant hues and pastels."

The Spring 2011 collection has a variety of textures – glossy, matte, sheer, sparkling – how can a woman choose the best texture for herself?

"Any woman can wear any texture – it's about choice more than about rules. Some days it's just the right feeling for a glossy lip – other days, a more sophisticated matte."

Why did you select model Iris Strubegger for the Spring 2011 campaign? What characteristics does she have that embody the NARS woman this spring?

"I wanted someone who had strong features in an androgynous way to offset the vibrant and playful colors, while still having an underlying sense of mystery. Iris is so modern and sexy and embodies such a unique sense of femininity – which is very NARS."

What is your favorite combination of products from the Spring 2011 collection?

"I love the jewel-toned greens in the line. Such as the dark green in Nouveau Monde Duo Eyeshadow and the bright green of Celebrate Soft Touch Shadow Pencil. We used this combination of shades backstage at Marc Jacobs' Spring/Summer 2011 show and it was the perfect decadent-but-romantic eye that is so quintessential to spring."
